

In 2007 Pope Benedict XVI was presented with one of Marianne Houtkamp's sculptures. The piece was given to him by Jim Morris, Director of the World Food Program, to represent the suffering and hunger of men, women, and children throughout the world.